ONE CERTAINTY

Some Barre People Fully Realize It Now.

When the back aches from kidney ills, When urinary troubles annoy you, There's a certain way to find relief; A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Barre people endorse this claim. Mrs. N. M. Nelson, 18 West street, Barre, Vt., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills to-day as when I publicly recommended them over eleven years ago. At that time I was suffering from kidney trouble, brought on by an attack of la grippe. I steadily grew worse, and the lightest household work tired me. If I were on my feet for an hour or so, sharp pains across my back obliged me to sit down. Then other symptoms of kidney complaint appeared and I was really in a bad way. I spent over one hundred dollars for doctors' prescriptions and medicines of various kinds, but as I found no relief, I became discouraged. One day my husband brought home a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Drown's drug store and told me to try them. A few doses brought the best of results, and I continued taking this remedy until I was entirely relieved. My children have also used this preparation with splendid results, and in view of these experiences, I advise other kidney sufferers to give it a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Bottles 25c. Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GOVERNOR VETOES BILL

Providing for Ascertainment of Damages by Railroads.

The governor's veto last evening of House bill 342, providing for the ascertainment of damages in the event of a change of motive power by a railroad, came as considerable of a surprise, as this is the bill which the governor himself required to be introduced before he would consent to sign Senate bill 12, which is the bill permitting steam railroads to operate steam trains by electricity, or vice versa, and which was put through to allow the New York, New Haven & Hartford road to run its steam trains into Bennington over the Bennington and North Adams electric road. The governor's message that accompanied his veto stated that the bill was regarded as unconstitutional. This is probably true, but it is also true that the bill does not accomplish what the governor supposed it would when he consented to sign Senate bill 12. The veto was sustained unanimously.

Several other bills were signed by Gov. Mead and messaged to the legislature at the reopening last night. He announced to the Senate that he had signed the Senate bills, relating to transportation by street railway companies of pupils of public and private schools and amending an act relating to seals for motor cycles.

To the House he announced that he had signed the following bills: Creating a board of army commissioners and authorizing the purchase, construction and maintenance of armories for use of the Vermont National Guard; incorporating the North Underhill Cemetery association, incorporating the Troy Cemetery association, amending the charter of the E. & T. Fairbanks & Co., an act securing to a town its share of public school money, although it has not maintained a legal school or schools the required number of weeks, protecting muskies, an act amending public statutes relating to liens on colts.

Nine new bills were introduced in the House last night, as follows: Repealing section of public statutes relating to taxation of bank deposits; relating to time limit in which certain duties required by chapters 30 to 34, inclusive, shall be performed; to pay Charles H. Powers $44.50 for the capture of a horse thief; amending statutes relating to bonds of employment; amending charter of Lake Dunmore Power & Traction company; legalizing the quadrennial appraisal of Woodford for 1910; to pay William A. Decker $87.10 for work while acting as commissioner on Standard monument; providing for additional questions on tax inventories; amending statutes relating to expenditures of money on state roads.

Two bills were introduced in the Senate last night, one by Senator Barden of Rutland, providing that all money expended upon highways, except in cities and incorporated villages, shall be drawn from town treasury upon order of the town road commissioner, and the other by Senator Tuttle of Rutland, relating to licensing of dogs.

The Senate passed the following bills in concurrence: Incorporating the Second Congregational church of Bennington, incorporating Assenney Mt. association, relating to confinement of persons acquitted by reason of insanity, relating to discharge of mortgages, ceding to the United States jurisdiction of certain lands in Vermont, incorporating Orange Co. Electric Co., to pay O. E. Williams, incorporating New Haven West Cemetery association, to pay certain claims for cattle killed, to pay town of Chelsea certain sums, to pay certain town treasurers certain sums, concerning certain record evidence.

The Senate passed its own bills as follows: Relating to certificates of appointment as notaries public and masters in chancery, relating to indexing documents filed with town and city clerks, providing for a union station in Burlington, relating to admission and discharge of voluntary patients at the insane hospital.

TIME FOR PRUNING FRUIT VINES.

February and March for Grapes—Others in Early Spring.

The best time for pruning grape vines is very early in the spring, according to the Country Gentleman. February and March are considered good months. As a matter of fact, the work should be done as soon after serious cold weather is past as possible. If the pruning is delayed until the sap begins to flow, it is likely to injure the vines. The exact methods of grape pruning vary a good deal. If you desire to have any special system explained, we shall be glad to do so, but you should make this question more specific. Other fruits, such as raspberries, blackberries, currants and gooseberries, should also be pruned early in the spring, or some time during the growing season. For plants in the condition which you describe, however, the early spring pruning is to be urgently recommended. With raspberries, for instance, the general plan is to remove all the roots of a bush, with a year-old so far as can be practically be done; with red raspberries in good growth, practically all the two-year-old wood can be removed. The crop then is to be secured from the one-year wood. It is good practice to cut out this wood as soon as the crop is gathered, say in July or early in August. This wood should then be taken out of the field and burned. This means the plants will be rid of a considerable number of insects and fungous spores, which are a menace to the plantation if allowed to remain.

With black raspberries, it is necessary to leave a little more of the old wood, on account of the difference in the habit of growth. Nevertheless, with strong-growing blackcaps, it is possible to keep the old wood all out with only a little two-year wood left. Currants and gooseberries grow in such a manner that wood two and three years old has to be left to some extent, but the general principle still holds good. The idea is to get rid of as much old wood as possible and to have as much clean, healthy, young growth as possible, while at the same time holding a reasonable number of fruit buds. This sort of pruning also gives an opportunity for thinning out the stools, as the old wood should be removed clear down to the ground. There is thus left room for the growth of fresh, vigorous canes from the roots. As to the best time for setting out these fruits, the spring is to be generally recommended, though fall planting is often successful when conducted with good plants or a good soil in a good state of cultivation.
